THREE ANCIENT CEMETERIES.

In Grafton county, New Hampshire, in the town of Enfield, near the boundary line that separates that township from that of Lebanon, lies one of the great ponds of the state. It is a beautiful sheet of water about five miles in length, covering 1600 acres of a valley walled in by hills with mountains of moderate height a part of its horizon line. Near its inlet from smaller ponds on a higher level, its banks are dotted with summer cottages; on its southern bank is the large farm belonging to the fraternity of Shakers, which once so numerous that at this station three "families" occupied different portions of it, where now a little band of "sisters" with one or two "brothers" and a group of children gathered from "the world's people," inhabit the great stone structure which when it was built "cost more than any building in the state except the capitol at Concord." This sheet of water is locally known as Lake Moscoma. Its outlet is a stream of an average width of five or six rods, which, falling some four or five hundred feet in its westerly descent to the Connecticut, is called the Moscoma river. Settlement of this region began about the middle of the 18th century. Those who cleared its farms were mainly from Connecticut; they came up the river to their new homes and gave to New Hampshire a cluster of familiar town names transfered from the communities they had left. On the fertile land near where the Moscoma joins the Connecticut river the early settlers of Lebanon built their log cabins and in July, 1761, obtained a charter for their town. On a hill a half mile east of the Connecticut, and a few hundred feet north of the Moscoma, the first burial ground of the new town was established. It takes its name "The Old Pine Cemetery" from a noble tree, whose roots grasping the footstone at the grave of one of the earliest settlers, have thrown it from its upright position and partially lifted it from its place. In the latter part of August of the current year, the compiler with members of his family visited this old burial place and copied from its monuments and headstones the information genealogically valuable that they still hold. He believes that the inscriptions were carefully taken, as the youngest of the copyists was nineteen years old and he thinks that none were omitted as the junior of the group marked each stone as the copy of its record was finished. With such information as he found in the library of the New England Historic Genealogical Society as to the families of those who there sleep their last sleep, he enters them and those of two less ancient cemeteries, in alphabetical order in the following pages.

In memory of Daniel Alden Esquire, who died May 18th 1790 in the 71st year of his age.

In memory of Mrs. Jane Alden, Relict of the late Daniel Alden Esq., who died May 6th 1817 in her 93d year.

The "Memorial of the descendants of the Hon. John Alden, by Ebenezer Alden M.D., of Randolph [Norfolk Co.] Mass. [1788-1881] is the authority for the genealogical line here given. Dr. Alden in his work acknowledges the valuable assistance he received from his "Aunt Jane" of Lebanon. John Alden joined the Mayflower when she touched at one of the ports of the south coast of England, while on her voyage from Holland to New England. Among his fellow passengers on the famous ship were William Molines or Mullins, who with his wife died at Plymouth in Feb. 1621, and their daughter Priscilla. "Tradition represents Priscilla to have been very beautiful in her youth, and John also was a comely person, and * * * it is not surprising that when he was sent by Capt. Standish, after the death of his wife, to solicit her hand in marriage, she preferred the messenger to the message." Longfellow tells the story in his "Courtship of Myles Standish:"

"Archly the maiden smiled, and, with eyes overrunning with laughter,
Said, in a tremulous voice, 'Why don't you speak for yourself, John?'"

The farm in Duxbury (near Plymouth) on which they resided is still in possession of their descendants, "having never been alienated." John Alden was born ——, 1599: died Duxbury Sept. 12, 1687: married about 1621, Priscilla Molines. Eleven children were born, of whom eight survived their parents. Their second son

Joseph[2] Alden was a farmer of Bridgewater [Plymouth Co.] Mass., born 1624; died Feb. 8, 1697. He received his farm in what is now known as West Bridgewater from his father, who was one of the grantees of the town. He married Mary, daughter of Moses Simmons junior. His son, Deacon

Joseph[3] Alden, born —— 1667, a farmer of Bridgewater, lived in what is now South Bridgewater; died Dec. 22, 1747; married —— 1690, Hannah, daughter of Daniel Dunham of Plymouth, Mass. They had ten children, seven sons; the eldest child was

Daniel[4] Alden, born Bridgewater, Mass., Jan. 29, 1691; died Stafford [Tolland Co.] Conn., May 3, 1767. He was a magistrate. He married —— 1717, Abigail, daughter of Joseph Shaw. She was sister of the Rev. John Shaw who was grandfather of Hon. Lemuel Shaw, who was for many years Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts. They had eleven children, five sons; the second son, second child, was

Deacon Daniel[5] Alden, of Stafford, Conn., Cornish and Lebanon, N. H. A farmer, born Bridgewater, Mass., Sept. 5, 1720: d. Lebanon [Grafton Co.], N. H., May 18, 1790. He first settled in Bridgewater, whence he soon removed to Stafford; was a deacon in the church, a magistrate, much engaged in public business, often in the legislature and universally respected. About 1782, he sold his farm in Conn. and removed to Cornish [Sullivan

Co.], N. H., where he resided eight years, when becoming infirm, he went to live with his eldest son at Lebanon. He married —— 1747, Jane, daughter of Seth Turner of Weymouth [Norfolk Co.], Mass., a descendant of Humphrey Turner of Scituate, Mass. She was born March 30, 1725, died Lebanon May 6, 1817.

Mr. Samuel Bailey, died June 2, 1798, aged 75 years.

In memory of Mr. John Baldwin, who died Dec. 7, 1777, in his 72^{d} year. Mr. Baldwin and 13 of his family died in 3 years.

In memory of Mrs. Lucy, wife of Mr. John Baldwin, who died Jan. 2, 1777 in her 62^{d} year.

It is probably one of this large family that lies in close proximity to those whose records are the last given. Only this could be read on the headstone:

Mr. John —— died Sept. 29, 1776 aged 41.

George Edward Barrows—1853—1872. [See Gould.]

An ancient headstone, part of which was illegible, yielded this record:

Mary wife of Bliss died Jan. 28, 1793 in 79th y^{e}

The headstone of the next grave could not be deciphered, but the footstone showed the name

Azariah Bliss.—The Bliss genealogy supplies the record that time has effaced and gives a line of four generations of progenitors of the name.

"Jonathan Bliss, son of Thomas of Belstone, England, was born in that village about the year 1575 or 1580. He died 1735-6. It is not known who he married or when, but he had several children born to him."

Thomas[1] Bliss of Belstone parish, Devonshire, England, of Braintree [Norfolk Co.], Mass., and of Hartford, Conn., was a brother of this Jonathan and a son of the above-named Thomas. He was born about the year 1580 or 1585. He married in England about 1612-1615 Margaret —— and had ten children, of whom six were born before the family came to New England * * * in the autumn of 1635. He died Hartford, Conn.—1640. His youngest child was

John[2] Bliss of Longmeadow [Hampden Co.], Mass., born Hartford, about 1640: died Longmeadow Sept. 10, 1702. Married Springfield, Mass., Oct. 7, 1767, Patience, daughter of Henry Burt. Seven children, the eldest was

John[3] Bliss of Enfield [Hartford Co.], and Lebanon [New London Co.], Conn.; born Sept. 7, 1669; married Jan. 11, 1693, Anna, daughter of Samuel Terry of Springfield, Mass. His second wife was named Hannah ——. Seven children, four sons; the youngest child was

Azariah[4] Bliss of Lebanon, Conn., and Lebanon [Grafton Co.], N. H. Born Lebanon, Conn., April 7, 1714: died Lebanon, N. H., — 1793: married April 29, 1736, Mary Tilden. The Porter genealogy gives her pedigree. Nathaniel[1] Tilden born Tenterden, Kent Co., England, came to New England with his wife Lydia Bourne in 1635 and settled in Scituate [Plymouth Co.], Mass. Their son Stephen[2] Tilden, born 1637, married Jan. 15, 1662 Hannah, daughter of Thomas Little, who, April 19, 1633, married Anne, daughter of Richard Warren, who came to Plymouth in the Mayflower in 1620. Their son

Stephen[3] Tilden, born 1664, married ——, and had daughter

"Mary Tilden, who married Azariah Bliss." Anne (Warren) Little, with her mother and four sisters came to Plymouth in the ship Ann in 1623.

In memory of Mrs. Sarah, wife of David Bliss who died Dec. 13, 1774, in her 34th year.

In memory of Mrs. Lucy ye 2d wife of Mr. David Bliss who died April 16, 1778 in her [age illegible].

David[5] Bliss was the eldest of the nine children. Of his wife Lucy, the compiler has found no record. He was born Lebanon Feb. 21, 1737. He was a farmer in the Lebanon of Conn. and of N. H. After the death of his second wife he removed to Hartford [Windsor Co.], Vt., where he probably died. He married May 10, 1761, Sarah, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Skinner) Porter. The genealogy of that name shows that the parents of this daughter were married in 1736 and had nine children, Sarah (Porter) Bliss being the second child, born June 28, 1740, of the fifth generation from the English emigrant John Porter, who was of Dorchester (since 1870 a part of the city of Boston), Mass., in 1630, and who, in October 1635 removed to Connecticut and died in Windsor in that province April 22, 1648. "She was the mother of five, perhaps six children;" the three elder ones were Phebe, b. —, 1762, married, March 28, 1787, Nathan Durkee of Lebanon, N. H.

Sarah, b. —, 1763, married, Dec. 2, 1784, Andrew Tracy of Hartford, Vt.

Mary, b. —, 1765, married, Apr. 1, 1784, David Blodgett of Chelsea, Vt.

Azariah Bliss, died Sept. 28, 1814, in 76th year his age. Clearly a younger brother of David and a son of Azariah and Mary (Tilden) Bliss. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war from Lebanon.

In memory of Bosworth, died 1784 (stone in part illegible).

Louisa, daughter of W. W. and J. M. Gulver(?) died Oct. 20, 1874, Æ 9 mos. 20 days.

Deacon Joseph Dana. The face of this stone was illegible, but its reverse gave the name.

To the memory of Capt. William Dana who deceased Dec. 11, 1805, in the 70th year of his age. He was one of the first planters in town, was respected in life and at death much lamented by his acquaintances and friends.

Johanna died Feb. 7, 1782, 18 ours old (stone chipped, in part illegible).

In memory of Abigail, dau. of Mr. William and Mrs. Hannah Dana who died March 15, 1808, in the 2d year of her age.

In memory of Dyer, son of Jedediah and Martha Dana, died May 21, 1834. (Part of the inscription below the surface of the ground.)

In memory of Samuel W., son of Jedediah and Martha Dana, deceased Aug. 15, 1825, aged 6 years.

The compiler was unable to find in the library of the New England Historic Genealogical Society any work that related to this group of Danas. The unusual name of Dyer which will again occur in these pages as a first or "given" name in connection with the surname of Hyde, suggests a relationship with that family.

In memory of Mr. Elijah Dewey Jur. Died Dec. 16, 1792, in his 40th year.

In memory of Deacon Nehemiah Estabrook, who died Feb. 10, 1787, in the 72d year of his age.

In memory of Mrs. Anna Estabrook the virtuous consort of Deacon Estabrook who departed this life Jan. 16 [illegible] in her 75th year.

Quoting the Bliss and Estabrook genealogies published respectively in 1881 and 1891, the death year of Anna (Bliss) Estabrook is found to be 1778, and her husband the ancestor of the Lebanon, N. H. Estabrooks is shown to be of the third generation from the English emigrant. "Rev. Joseph[1] Estabrook, born about 1640 at Enfield, Middlesex Co., England; came to this country in 1660. * * * He entered Harvard College, from which he graduated in 1664. Three years afterwards he was ordained as colleague of the Rev. Edward Bulkeley, minister of the church in Concord [Middlesex Co.], Mass., and on his death in 1696 became pastor of the church, continuing in that office until his death at the age of 71." From the official records of Concord the compiler takes this item:

"The Reuerand M[r] Joseph Eastabrook minister of Concord Dyed September y[e] 17: 1711," and from the history of Watertown, Middlesex Co., Mass., this statement: "Capt. Hugh Mason * * * one of the very first settlers of Watertown, admitted freeman Mar. 4, 1635, Representative [ten years between 1639 and 1677]. Selectman 29 years, a Lieut. as early as 1649 and made Capt. May 5, 1652. He died Oct. 10, 1678 aged 73. By wife Esther who died May 1, 1692, he had seven children." The third daughter, third child, was "Mary, born Dec. 18, 1640: married May 20, 1668, Rev. Joseph Estabrook of Concord." Of this marriage there were six children; three sons, the third son, the fourth child, was

Rev. Samuel[2] Estabrook, born Concord, Mass., June 7, 1674; died Canterbury, Windham Co., Conn., June 23, 1727: married Mar. 23, 1714, Rebecca, daughter of Rev. Nehemiah and Sarah (Jackson) Hobart of Newton, Middlesex Co., Mass., granddaughter of Rev. Peter Hobart [first minister of the first church of Hingham, Plymouth Co., Mass., born Hingham, Norfolk Co., England, and baptized there Oct. 13, 1604.] She died Canterbury, Conn., Dec. —, 1727. The genealogy of the name has record of but three children, of whom one was:

Nehemiah[3] Estabrook, born Canterbury, Windham Co., Conn., Apr. 1, 1715, resided at Mansfield, Tolland Co., Conn., where in Aug. 1735 he united with the Congregational church. About 1768 he went to Lebanon, Grafton Co., N. H., where he died Feb. 10, 1787. He married, Mansfield Sept. 2, 1736, Berthiah, daughter of Robert Paddock, who died 1743; 2[d], Oct. 18, 1744, Abigail, daughter of Deacon Experience Porter, who died at Mansfield 1770; 3[d], Sept. 23, 1773, Anna, daughter of Ebenezer Bliss of Longmeadow, Hampden Co., Mass., who died Lebanon, N. H., Jan. 16, 1778. She was cousin of the Azariah Bliss who died in Lebanon, N. H., in 1793, his father John being the eldest, as her father Ebenezer was the youngest son of John Bliss and Patience Burt of Longmeadow. The genealogy of that name shows that she was the oldest of eight children. The record reads "Joanna, born Dec. 10, 1723, married September 23, 1773, Deacon Nehemiah Estabrook of Lebanon, N. H." In a lot about ten by fifty feet stands a memorial structure wholly of granite. Its base is a cube of three feet square, upon it stands another cube about two and three-quarters feet high, surmounted by a cross about two feet in height. Upon one of the faces of the base is cut the name Greene, on another Gould, and on a third Wood. The compiler was informed that it was erected by Prof. Greene. The following inscriptions upon it relate to that family:

The Halls of New England, published 1873, give the line of this family to John Hall who came from Coventry, Warwickshire, England, to Charlestown [since 1874 a part of Boston], Mass., in 1630. Probably in the fleet with Gov. Winthrop. The English town is about 95 miles northwest of London. He was one of the original members of the first Church of Charlestown which became by removal the first Church of Boston. Those who remained where the settlement was commenced Nov. 2, 1632, organized another church; among them were John Hall and his wife Bethia. He was of Barnstable about 1640, and of that part Yarmouth that was set off as the town of Dennis as early as 1653. These towns are on "Cape Cod" and in Barnstable Co., Mass. He died July 23, 1696, and was buried on his farm. He is said to have had 12 children—10 sons are of record. The genealogy (page 212) has the following:

"Arunah Hall of Lebanon, N. H., in 1865 when he was 85 years old, said that he often heard his father say that his emigrant ancestor had 12 sons and no daughters."

William[2] Hall, born Yarmouth, baptized June 8, 1651; died Mansfield [Tolland Co.], Conn., June 11, 1727. He was taxed in Yarmouth in 1676, removed to Norwich, Conn., and afterwards to Mansfield. Married Feb. 18, 1768, Mehetable, daughter of Cornelius Storrs of Mansfield, who died Mar. 13, 1830. He was a soldier of the Revolution, was present at the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga. He was captain of militia. The genealogy states that after he was engaged to marry, Mehetable's grandfather Storrs gave him a tract of land in Lebanon, N. H., then a wilderness, if he would settle on it, "which he was reluctant to do on account of the hardships to which it would subject his wife." But she "settled the business by telling him if he did not go, she would not marry him." Children, all born Lebanon, N. H.:

George Hubbard died July 2, 1839, aged 74.

Mehitable, wife of George Hubbard, died June 7, 1832, aged 68 yrs.

In reference to Moses Hebard, the compiler's assistant copied his headstone inscription so that the copy stated that he was born in Lebanon, N. H., in 1719. This part of the inscription may be an error of the stone cutter, but it is clearly an error; the town was not settled till many years later than 1719. Without changing the form of the inscription copy, it has been made to conform to the facts by punctuation.

The Hibbard genealogy gives the line of the early settlers of Lebanon:

Robert[1] Hebard, born Salisbury [Wiltshire], England, baptized Mar. 13, 1613; died, Beverly, [Essex Co.] Mass., after Apr. 9, 1684, the date of his will, and June 24 of that year when it was probated. Jeremiah Huntington, —— June 8, 1794 [stone broken]. See record of Abigail Huntington Kimball.

The genealogy of his name, published 1863, gives his pedigree, and states that, traditionally, William,[1] the first of the name to land in New England, was "a son of Simon, who is said to have died while on the voyage to this country, and of Margaret Baret." The sixth report of the Record Commissioners of Boston, published 1881, "containing the Roxbury Land and Church Records," supports this tradition. As Roxbury (annexed to the City of Boston in 1868) adjoined the old town of Boston, it is practically certain that the family landed at its harbor front, and the membership of the widow Margaret in the church at Roxbury, of which the Rev. John Eliot (sometimes called the Apostle to the Indians) was minister, fixes the date of immigration. His register has this title: "A recorde of such as adjoyned themselves vnto the fellowship of this Church of Christ at Roxborough: as also of such children as they had when they joyned, & of such as were borne vnto them vnder the holy Covenant of this Church who are most pperly the seede of this Church" (Rec. Com. Report, p. 73). On page 79 of the report the following record appears: "Margret Huntington widow; she came in the yeare 1633, her husband dyed by the way of the small pox, she brought children with her."

William[1] Huntington, supposed to be the son of Simon and Margaret (Baret) Huntington, was of Salisbury, Essex Co., Mass., as early as 1640; died about 1689; married Joanna Bayley. He removed from Mass. to Conn., where his son

The genealogy of the Kimball Family (published in 1897) gives the paternal ancestry of this group of the name.

Richard[1] Kimball was of the parish of Rattlesden, County of Suffolk, England, as is shown by the following entry on the parish register. "Henry Kemball ye sonne of Richard and Vrsula his wife, baptized 1615. 12. August." Ursula was the daughter of Henry Scott of Rattlesden, as appears by his bequests to her children. Henry Kimball, by the printed record in the genealogy, was the second child of his parents. Richard Kimball was probably born about or earlier than 1590. He embarked at Ipswich, Co. Suffolk, England, with wife Ursula and eight children, in the ship Elizabeth, April 10, 1634; landed at Boston, thence went to Watertown [Middlesex Co.], Mass., and settled in that part of the town which later became a part of Cambridge. The compiler of the genealogy locates his home lot of six acres "near what is now the corner of Huron Avenue and Appleton Street." About 1635 he was invited to remove to Ipswich [Essex Co.], Mass., where he spent the remainder of his days. He married 2d, October 23, 1661, Margaret, widow of Henry Dow of Hampton, N. H. He died June 22, 1675. 11 children, 6 sons; the 3d son, 7th child, was

John[2] Kimball, (Richard), born Rattlesden, Co. Suffolk, England, ——, 1631; died Ipswich [Essex Co.], Mass., May 6, 1698; married, about 1655, Mary Brewster, born 1633, who, with her parents, came over with the Kimball family in the Elizabeth in 1634. 13 children, 7 sons; the 2d son, 6th child, was

Corporal Richard[3] Kimball (John,[2] Richard[1]), born Ipswich [Essex Co.], Mass., Sept. 22, 1665; died Ipswich, May 26, 1715; married, Feb. 13, 1688, Lydia Wells of Ipswich, the mother of his children; married, 2d, Aug. 30, 1705, Sarah White, who died Feb. 22, 1725. 7 children, 3 sons; the eldest son, 2d child, was

Richard[4] Kimball (Richard,[3] John,[2] Richard[1]), born Ipswich [Essex Co.], Mass., Aug. 17, 1691, died ———, 1760; married Feb. 11, 1716, Sarah, daughter of Andrew and Mary [Conant] Burley, born Oct. 6, 1698. About 1735 removed to Norwich [New London Co.] and later to Windham [Windham Co.], Conn. 11 children, 5 sons; the eldest son, 4th child, was

Richard[5] Kimball (Richard,[4] Richard,[3] John,[2] Richard[1]), born Norwich [New London Co.], Conn., May 8, 1725; died Lebanon, Grafton Co., N. H., Aug. 2, 1810, [gravestone]; married Nov. 7, 1750, Abigail Huntington. He resided in Windham [Windham Co.], Conn. The Huntington Genealogical Memorial, published in 1863, gives the list of their children under the statement "this family were all born in Windham, Scotland Society," and of the wife and mother the record reads "Abigail, born June 27, 1727. She married Nov. 7, 1750, Richard Kimball, Jr., of Scotland." Samuel, the brother of this Abigail, born ———, 1731, died 1796, "was one of Connecticut's most distinguished sons. Sent to the General Assembly in 1764, to its upper branch in 1773, Judge of Superior Court, 1774, delegate to Congress, 1775, signer of the declaration of July 4, 1776, president of Congress from Sept. 28, 1779, till ill-health compelled his resignation July 6, 1781, Chief Justice of Conn., 1784, Lieut. Gov., 1785, Governor 1786 till his death." They were son and daughter of Nathaniel[3] Huntington, born Norwich, 1691; died Windham, 1767; son of Joseph,[2] born Norwich, 1661, died Windham, 1747; who was son of Deacon Simon[1] (brother of the William who was ancestor to the Jeremiah Huntington who died Lebanon, N. H., June 8, 1794), born England, died Norwich 1706. (For the parentage of these brothers see statement following the epitaph of Jeremiah of Lebanon, N. H.). Children of Richard and Abigail (Huntington) Kimball, born Windham, Conn.:

i. Mary,[6] b. Nov. 10, 1752; m. Aaron Mosher of Rochester.
ii. Elijah, b. Sept. 19, 1754.
iii. Eunice, b. Nov. 30, 1756; m. Henry Hebard.
iv. Jesse, b. Feb. 5, 1759; [d. July 8, 1830, gravestone age 71 years.]
v. Abigail, b. Sept. 27, 1761; [d. Lebanon, N. H., Dec. 20, 1843, gravestone.]
vi. Lydia, b. Aug. 6, 1763.
vii. Enoch, b. Dec. 20, 1765.
viii. Richard, b. July 16, 1768.
ix. Ebenezer, b. June 24, 1771; [d. Lebanon, N. H., May —, 1854, aged 83, gravestone.]

The compiler of the Kimball genealogy copied this list, adding the information that Elijah lived in Windham, Conn.; that Jesse died Lebanon, N. H., 1832; that Eunice married Henry Hubbard, and that Richard went to Lebanon, N. H. Both Hebards and Hubbards are buried in the Old Pine Cemetery, but as the Hubbard genealogy has no Henry of record as marrying a Eunice Kimball, the earlier gencalogy doubtless gave the true surname.

Richard[6] Kimball (Richard,[5] Richard,[4] Richard,[3] John,[2] Richard[1]), born Windham [Windham Co.], Conn., July 16, 1768; died Lebanon [Grafton Co.], N. H., Feb. 12, 1860; married ———, 1795, Mary, daughter of Joel Marsh. They resided at Windham, and at other places, living for many years at West Lebanon, N. H. The Historical Magazine (pub. New York), vol. iv., p. 127, says of him, "Capt. Kimball was distinguished for his hospitality and for the interest he took in educational and benevolent enterprises. His fondness for home and agricultural pursuits were attested by his residence of more than fifty years upon his farm on the Connecticut river, which in point of culture and beauty was unsurpassed in that beautiful valley. * * * He was identified with all the early internal improvements in New England. When De Witt Clinton commenced the construction of the Erie and Champlain canals * * * he was referred to him as the man who had been practically engaged in constructing the Middlesex [from Boston to Lowell], the first canal in this country. * * * For many years Gov. Clinton consulted him in all matters of practical difficulty in relation to the canals." Children:

For the compilation of the records of the descendants of Richard and Abigail (Huntington) Kimball, who were of the New Hampshire branch, the compiler has relied mainly on the Kimball Family publication of 1897. But from no work that he has consulted, nor from any information obtained in the vicinity of the ancient cemetery, did he gain any knowledge of two daughters of Richard and Mary (Marsh) Kimball. Until this work shall be printed there will probably be no record that Eunice H. and Mary Kimball, of the seventh generation, ever lived and died in Lebanon, other than the inscriptions on their gravestones.

Elisha Lathrop, died July 2, 1787, aged 73 years.
Hannah his wife, died Jan. 16, 1807, aged 81 years.

The Lathrop genealogy gives his line to the great-grandfather of the Rev. John Lothrop, immigrant to New England.

John Lowthorp, great-grandfather of the English emigrant from old to New England, was living early in the 16th century in Cherry Burton, a parish about four miles from Lowthorp Wapentake [a division or district] of Dickering, East Riding [one of the three * * * jurisdictions * * * into which the County of York is divided], of Yorkshire. His name appears on an assessment roll of 1545. He left a son, Robert, and three daughters.

Robert, succeeded to the estates of his father in Cherry Burton. He married Ellen ——, who survived him fourteen years and left a will which supplies the names of her descendants; among them her eldest son

Thomas, born Cherry Burton; married 1st, Elizabeth (widow) Clark, who was buried in Etton, July 29, 1574; married 2d, Mary ——, who was buried in Etton, Jan. 6, 1588; and 3d, Jane ——, who, after his death, became the wife of —— Coppendale. He removed to Etton, Harthill Wapentake, East Riding, Yorkshire, about 1576, and died there in 1606. His will, dated Oct. 5, 1606, was probated the following January. He left 22 children, 11 sons; the 5th son, 12th child, was

John[1] Lothrop, baptized Etton, Yorkshire, England, Dec. 20, 1584; graduate Cambridge 1609; curate of the parish church of Egerton, Co. Kent, 1611–1623; a dissenting minister to a small congregation in London, 1624–1632; arrested, with over forty of his congregation, by order of Church and State authorities, Apr. 22, 1632. Some two years later all but Mr. Lathrop were released on bail. During his imprisonment his wife was taken sick, and "he procured liberty of the bishop to visit her before her death." Soon after his return to prison he was released, and ordered to procure bail. The court proceedings gave the opportunity of escape. Governor Winthrop's Journal, under date of Sept. 18, 1634, records: "The Griffin and another Ship now arriving with about 200 passengers; Mr. Lothrop and Mr. Sims, two godly ministers, coming in the same ship." Some of his London congregation came with him or had preceded him, and in the following January formed a church at Scituate [Plymouth Co.], Mass. In 1639 he removed to Barnstable [Barnstable Co.], Mass., and founded another church. He had married a second wife before June 14, 1635, when she joined the church of which he was minister. Probate proceedings show that she survived him. 12 children are of record, 7 sons; the 3d son, 6th child, was

Samuel[2] Lothrop (John[1]), born England; came with his father to Scituate and Brewster, Mass.; married Brewster, Nov. 28, 1644, Elizabeth Scudder, reported by Savage as a sister of that John Scudder who was of Barnstable in 1640. She died before 1690, as in that year, in Plymouth, Mass., he married Abigail, daughter of Deacon John Doane of that town. He removed to Norwich [New London Co.], Conn., in 1668, and died Feb. 29, 1700. 9 children, 4 sons; the 3d son, 4th child, was

Although but one epitaph with the surname Storrs was copied in the Old Pine Cemetery, the compilation that follows will show that a goodly number were born to the name in Lebanon, some evidently married there and some doubtless died in the town. The Storrs Genealogy published in 1886 is mainly relied on for authority. The family is traced back to Sutton-Cum-Lound, Nottinghamshire, England. William Storrs, great, great grandfather of the emigrant to New England, dated his will in the last year of the reign of Queen Mary, 1557. Smalley, assistant professor of political economy in the University of Michigan, the compiler has received valuable information, the most important being the correction of the death date of Fidelia (Storrs) Smalley, erroneously given in the genealogy of the name, as Nov. 21, 1837: Joseph, the father of Elisha Smalley,

Some of the descendants of the immigrant Robert Waterman are chronicled in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 23, pages 204–5, and that publication is authority for what follows in relation to that surname.

Thomas and Robert Waterman, brothers, came to New England in 1636. Thomas settled in Roxbury (since 1868 a part of Boston), Mass., and died there in 1676.

Mrs. Submit, widow of John Wheatley Esq. died Mar. 5, 1806 in her 84 year

The Old Pine which gives name to the ce metery is rooted in the Wheatley lot.

The Wheatley Genealogy, published in 1902, is the authority for the statements which follow:

Capt. John was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1718: died in Lebanon [Grafton Co.], N. H., July 30, 1786. His father, who died in 1731, was a surgeon in the British navy. Intended by his mother for the navy, he was indentured to the commander of a vessel for a term of seven years to fit him as a mariner. The ship sailed for America, bound for New London or Norwich, Conn. The captain sold his indentures to a farmer in that vicinity, with whom it is believed he remained until he was 21 years old. He soon began teaching school, following the sea between terms. He commanded a company in the French war in 1759; with his company from Connecticut he was in the expedition of 1761 against Havana, which resulted in its capture Aug. 14, 1762. Before the return of the expedition, his family lived in Boston, Mass., and Norwich, Conn., until after the close of the French war in 1763, when, with the exception of the two elder children, they accompanied him to Lebanon, N. H. He was moderator of its first town meeting, Sept. 12, 1765, the town clerk for nearly 20 years, the first civil magistrate, the first schoolmaster and the first representative in the New Hampshire legislature, and the first and only representative of the town in the Vermont legislature, at the time when the 16 border towns gave allegiance to that state; and held other positions of public trust. He did not serve In the Revolutionary army, but sent his four sons, two of whom died in the service. He married in 1742, Submit Peck, widow of Aaron Cook, daughter of Benjamin[3] Peck of Franklin, a town originally a part of Norwich, Conn.; he was a son of Benjamin,[2] grandson of Henry[1] Peck, who was of New Haven, Conn., in 1638. She was born Franklin, Aug. 1, 1722: died Lebanon, N. H., March 5, 1806. Children:

The compiler has been unable to determine the parentage of the John Wood who was the father of the little Anna who died in 1817. Her mother was the daughter of Levi and Jemima (Martin) Hyde, and the genealogy of that name states that he was born July 30th, 1768, and that at the date of his marriage, Apr. 28, 1796, he was of Lebanon, N. H., where he remained as a farmer till his death, March 26, 1838. His widow, born Lebanon, Apr. 26, 1779, was still living in the town of her birth in 1857. Their children as given by the Hyde Genealogy were all born in Lebanon:

Some two or three miles in an air line from the "Old Pine Cemetery" of Lebanon, in Sullivan Co., in that part of the town of Plainfield known as East Plainfield, is located one of the oldest and largest burial grounds of the vicinity. It is in a hilly district, and though only about four miles east of the Connecticut, which separates these two New Hampshire towns from those of Windsor Co. in Vermont, its altitude is much above the level of the river. It has ample space for future generations. It has been well cared for, and on the August day that the compiler and his grandson (a university student) copied the inscriptions of its headstones its condition suggested affectionate remembrance of surviving relatives, and rest and peace for those beneath its sod.

The compiler has been unable to determine from published works the parentage of Moses Chase.

There can be little doubt that he is a descendant of an early settler of the name in Cornish, another Sullivan Co. town bordering on the Connecticut river. The genealogy of Chase will undoubtedly be of interest to those of the name or connected with it by marriage, many of whom must yet be resident in the vicinity of the old cemetery. Cornish is an adjoining town to Plainfield. A "native here and to the manor born" in 1818, who will be quoted as authority, wrote in 1867 that "the town of Cornish is full of Chases." The genealogical line may also be of some interest to others who are not of the locality, as it shows that this New England branch of the family gave to the country Salmon Portland Chase, who as Governor, Senator, as a member of President Lincoln's Cabinet, and as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, gained a national reputation. He was born in Cornish, January 13, 1808. Another circumstance of some general interest is the fact that the line can be traced to the great grandfather or the emigrant to New England through three generations of English progenitors, making him of the fourth generation from the earliest known ancestor of the name.

Aquila[4] Chase (Aquila,[3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]), born ——, 1618, came to New England with or after his brother Thomas; both were of Hampton, Rockingham Co., N. H., as early as 1639 or 40. About 1646 he removed to Newbury [Essex Co.], Mass. He made his will Sept. 19, 1670, and died on the 27th of the following December. He married Anne, daughter of John Wheeler. They had 11 children, 5 sons; the youngest child was

Moses[5] Chase (Aquila,[4] Aquila,[3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]), born Newbury, Mass., Dec. 24, 1663, was an ensign in the Essex Co. regiment; married Anne, daughter of Thomas Follensbee, and had 9 children, 7 sons; the 2d son, 2d child was

Daniel[6] Chase (Moses,[5] Aquila,[4] Aquila,[3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]), born Newbury, Sept. 20, 1685; died Sutton [Worcester Co.], Mass., Apr. —, 1768; married Jan. 6, 1706, Sarah March, and had 10 children, 7 sons; the eldest child was

Samuel[7] Chase (Daniel,[6] Moses,[5] Aquilla,[4 3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]), born Newbury, Mass., Sept. 28, 1707; died Cornish [Sullivan Co.], N. H., Aug. 12, 1800; married Mary Dudley and removed with his family to Cornish, of which he was one of the founders. His children were Samuel, Jonathan, March, Dudley, born 1730, Sarah, Elizabeth, Solomon, Anne and Mary.

In the library of the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, Mass., there is a single sheet, measuring 8 by 10 inches including margins. The printing on its face is but 6 by 7 inches. It shows in the form of a letter addressed by a father to his son, the line of their ancestry. Its author was Naham Chase, who was born in Cornish, July 24, 1818. From the letter the compiler quotes: "Abanby, N. Y., April 3, 1867. * * * Your great great grandfather was Moses Chase. He was one of the first settlers of the town of Cornish, N. H. He had nine sons, all of whom lived to be men: John, Caleb, Nahum, Daniel, Clement, owning large farms in Cornish, Harvey a lawyer in Cornish; Amos, went to Ohio; Mooda, went to Illinois; and another whose name I have forgotten. * * * Your great grandfather John Chase was born in Cornish in 1752—had a second wife. By his first had son Cotton * * * by his second Moses, a farmer and miller; Gilman, a farmer, went west; John, who became a merchant in Boston; Juda, died a missionary among the Indians at the south" [and five daughters] "I believe all born in Cornish." * * * Your grandfather Cotton Chase was born Aug. 8, 1783, married about 1814 Betsey Chase, who was born Aug. 19, 1789, both of the town of Cornish. She was his first cousin, his father Deacon John Chase and her father Capt. Caleb Chase being own brothers. They had five children, Martha C., born Sept. 21, 1816; Nahum (your father), born July 24, 1818; Caleb R., born Oct. 3, 1820 (of Windsor, Vt.); Hannah B., born Aug. 16, 1824, died at 3 years of age; Caroline Hannah, born Dec. 18, 1827, died at thirty." In connection with the record of his son's paternal grandmother, Betsey Chase, his father gives the list of her brothers and four sisters. Her brothers were Caleb, born Cornish about 1797, Kimball and Nahum. The last named died young; the two elder brothers went to Boston and engaged in business; of them he writes: "Caleb went to Boston, Mass., when he was a young man, and became a wealthy dry goods merchant—built ships, was a large importer and wholesale dealer * * * he is my uncle; Kimball went to Boston and became a dry goods merchant." This uncle Caleb died in Boston, Mass., Feb. 8, 1865, aged 68. The record of his death confirms the statements of his nephew as to his birthplace and parentage, but adds nothing to his narrative except that it appears by record that his mother was named Elizabeth and that both parents were born in Cornish.

Mr. Nahum[12] Chase (born 1818, whose wife was Betsey, daughter of Jacob Ecker of an old Dutch family of Berne, Albany Co., N. Y.), began his letter to his son with a reference to that ancestor (Moses of the 9th generation) concerning whose family he had knowledge from his father Cotton[11] and grandfather John[10] who was born in 1752; but in his recital told all he knew as to an earlier progenitor. His exact words were "Your great, great, great grandfather's name was March Chase."

The compiler some twenty years since had a business acquaintance with a Mr. George B.[10] Chase, a son of Theodore[9] Chase, a Boston merchant whose mansion house stood at the corner of Beacon and Bowdoin Streets in that city, whose line to the English immigrant was Theodore,[9] Stephen,[8] Stephen,[7] Joseph,[6] Aquila,[5] Aquila.[4] When his father Theodore[9] died in 1859 he was in possession "of some of the family papers of his ancestor Aquila."

In the investigation of his family line Mr. George Bigelow Chase had the assistance of the expert genealogist Horatio G. Somerby, who after an investigation of family and other records in New England, made in 1869 an exhaustive search of old English records. The result of the search was the publication in "The Heraldic Journal" of "A genealogcal memoir of the Chase Family," in Old and New England, "with notices of some of their descendants." The record of Samuel[7] (Daniel,[6] Moses,[5] Aquila,[4] Aquila,[3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]) and the quotations that follow are from this work. Mr. Somerby visited Chesham [Buckinghamshire] to examine its parish register.

Its earliest record relating to the family determined that Thomas[1] Chase of Hundrich, in the parish of Chesham, was the father of the Richard[2] Chase (Thomas[1]), baptized Chesham, Aug. 3, 1542, who, Apr. 16, 1564, married Joan Bishop. Their children, all baptized Chesham, were

i.	Robert,[2]	bapt. Sept. 2, 1565.	vi.	Aquila,	bapt. Aug. 14, 1580.
ii.	Henry,	" Aug. 10, 1567.	vii.	Jason,	" Jan. 13, 1583.
iii.	Lydia,	" Oct. 4, 1573.	viii.	Thomas,	" July 18, 1585.
iv.	Ezekiel,	" Apr. 23, 1576.	ix.	Abigail,	" Jan. 12, 1588.
v.	Dorcas,	" Mar. 2, 1578.	x.	Mordecai,	" July 31, 1591.

The register at Chesham contains no other mention of Aquila, Thomas and Mordecai than the record of their baptism. Of the seven remaining children of Richard Chase, their marriages or deaths, and in some cases both, are recorded.

This shows that three of the younger sons left Chesham and lived and died elsewhere." * * * "The discovery of the unique name of Aquila, found nowhere else in England before or since, in any records of families bearing the name of Chase, was deemed conclusive proof by Mr. Somerby, as it has been since by other distinguished antiquarians, of the identity of the American with the English families." * * * Aquila[3] Chase married [family tradition holds her name to have been Sarah] and had sons

Aquila,[4] born 1618; died Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., Dec. 27th, 1670; who married Anna Wheeler, and Thomas[4] Chase, who was of New England as early as 1636; married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Philbrick of Hampton [Rockingham Co.], N. H., where he died in 1653. Five of their sons are of record.

In the Heralds Visitation of Buckinghamshire of 1634 the coat armor of the Chases of Chesham is given as "Gules, four crosses patonce, argent; on a canton azure, a lion passant, or. Crest, a lion rampant, or, holding between his feet a cross patonce, argent."

Mr. Chase's work connects the Cornish branch with their English ancestors, for among the descendants of Thomas[1] of Hundrich he includes that March[8] Chase who was the son of Samuel[7] and Mary (Dudley) Chase, who were among the earliest settlers of Cornish, N. H.

Dudley[8] Chase, son of Samuel[7] and brother of March[8] Chase of Cornish, N. H., was born ———, 1730; died Apr. 13, 1814; married Aug. 23, 1753, Alice Corbet of Mendon [Worcester Co.], Mass. Children:

Hon. Ithamar[9] Chase (Dudley,[8] Samuel,[7] Daniel,[6] Moses,[5] Aquila,[4] Aquila,[3] Richard,[2] Thomas[1]), born ——, 1763, a distinguished citizen of Vermont, married Janet Ralston of Keene, and among others had

In connection with the name of Huntington found in "The Old Pine Cemetery" of Lebanon, N. H., the compiler abstracted the statements of the genealogist of the name as to William the emigrant ancestor of Jeremiah Huntington who died in that town June 18, 1794. A reference to that immigrant was already in type describing him as the first of the name to land in New England when the compiler of the genealogy obtained definite information as to his father, which confirmed the tradition that he had died at sea; and determined that when his widowed mother landed at Boston she had with her not only her son William, but his brothers Thomas, Christopher and Simon. The widow about 1635 married Thomas Stoughton of Dorchester (a part of Boston since 1870), Mass., who with his family removed to Windsor [Hartford Co.], Conn., where he died March 25, 1661.

Lois (Huntington) Martin was a descendant of the last named son, the line being

Simon Huntington, born England about 1600, died at sea 1633; married England [probably Norwich, Co. Norfolk], Margaret Baret. They were the parents of

Deacon Simon[1] Huntington, born England, 1629; died Norwich [New London Co.], Conn, June 28, 1706, aged 77 years; married, Saybrook [Middlesex Co.], Conn., Oct. —, 1653, Sarah, daughter of Joseph Clark of Windsor, Conn., who died ———, 1721, aged 88 years. 10 children, 6 sons; the youngest child was

James[2] Huntington (Simon[1]), born Norwich, Conn., May 18, 1680; died Norwich, Sept. 3, 1727; married Priscilla Miller. 6 children, 2 sons; the 1st son, 2d child, was

James[3] Huntington (James,[2] Simon[1]), born Norwich, Conn., Feb. 2, 1707; died May 12, 1785; married Dec. 3, 1735, Elizabeth Darby, who died Jan. 12, 1790. They lived in that part of Norwich called the Great Plain. 11 children, 5 sons; the eldest child was

William[4] Huntington (James,[3 2] Simon[1]), born Feb. 1, 1737; died Middlebury [Addison Co.], Vt., July 4, 1816; married Dec. 11, 1763, Anne Pride, who died Mar. 4, 1776; 2d, Feb. 11, 1777, Lois Durkee, and 3d, Apr. 14, 1791, Elizabeth Waterman. A soldier of the Revolution. He lived for a few years in Lebanon [New London Co.], Conn., and then removed to Vermont. 11 children, 4 sons; the 4th daughter, 8th child, was

Fanny[5] Huntington (William,[4] James,[3 2] Simon[1]), born Norwich, Conn., Nov. 14, 1777; died ———, 1823; married Nathan Bicknell, and lived in Brighton, Vt., and Lebanon [Grafton Co.], N. H. The 5th daughter, 9th child, was Lois[5] Huntington (William,[4] James,[3 2] Simon[1]), born Middlebury [Addison Co.], Vt., Sept. 11, 1780; died Plainfield [Sullivan Co.], N. H., Jan. 21, 1860 [gravestone]; married Sylvanus Martin, M.D., and lived in Plainfield.

The most conspicuous monument in the East Plainfield cemetery is on the McCollister lot. It is of white marble, and the apex of its shaft is some eight feet above its granite base. Its inscriptions are:

Isaac E. McCollister, Jan. 26, 1809—Aug. 20, 1865.
Mary M., his wife, Mar. 25, 1813—Sept. 16, 1893.
Their children:
Sarah A., Nov. 5, 1838—Sept. 13, 1875.
Elisha H., Mar. 14, 1841—Sept. 15, 1845.
Zura E., Dec. 23, 1845—Dec. 22, 1867.
Alma F., Feb. 7, 1850—Feb. 9, 1863.

The compiler of the genealogy of a Pennsylvania family of this name says that "The name McAllister has assumed many changes in spelling since the formation of the new clan by Allaster MacDonald in 1263." But, however, that part of the surname which follows Mac (which indicates cates son of) is varied in its spelling by common use, in all cases where English or Scotch authors of authority use it, the latter part is written beginning with an A. The compiler examined the 50 volumes of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register; the publications of a half century from the year 1847. Its indexes disclosed the name 34 times, in 3 cases only did the latter part of the surname begin with a C. In that branch of the family whose name is chiseled on the cemetery monument, a tradition exists to the effect that the surname of Michael the great grandfather of its present head, was Archer; that he was born in Scotland, that his marriage displeasing his father he was disinherited, that coming to America he landed in Canada and settled in Columbia, Coos Co., N. H., and later in Piermont, Grafton Co., N. H., and still later in Vermont, dying there, near Piermont, which is one of the towns bordering on the Connecticut, the boundary between the two states; that he assumed his mother's maiden name, and that he and his descendants ever after have written it McCollister. This tradition may be fairly offset by the statements which follow. Canada was a French possession for more than a hundred years before it passed under the government of the English. War existed for the possession of Canada from 1752 to 1763, between England and her colonies and France and the Indians. Northern New Hampshire was not settled until that war was over. Michael McAllaster or McCollister, could not have settled in either province before the last named date. There is an indication that the name was in the vicinity of Plainfield, N. H., soon after the conquest of Canada. Jerusha, daughter of Nathaniel Spofford, was born Rowley, Essex Co., Mass., May 17, 1742. She died Newport [Sullivan Co.], N. H., Nov. 26, 1812. Newport is about ten miles from Plainfield. the town of Croyden lying between the other two Sullivan Co. towns. In 1765 she married William McAllaster, who settled in Wiscasset, Maine, removing in 1779 to Bedford [Hillsboro Co.], N. H., where he died Feb. 17, 1787. They had nine children. Widowed at 45 years of age, with her young children she probably returned to her own people to bring up her sons and daughters; and in this vicinity it is likely she was married.

And in this connection it may properly be shown that the name was in the English colonies as early as the middle of the 17th century. The New England Historical and Genealogical Register (Vol. I, page 378) is authority for the statement that among the passengers in the ship John & Sara bound from London to Boston in Nov. 1651, were "John Mackalaster, Allester Macknester, Daniel Mackalester and Sander Mackdonell."

The compiler of the genealogy of the Pennsylvania branch gives what must be the true origin of the name. "MacAllister:—that is son of Alister, a branch of the famous and warlike clan McDonald whose chief was Lord of the Isles. [The Hebrides, or Western Islands, northwest of Scotland about 25 miles from the main land.] This clan were always Stuart men—and loyal to their King until the final overthrow in 1745. * * * Allaster MacDonald, the progenitor of the MacAllasters, flourished about 1263, and became chief of a new clan. * * * His son Allaster, MacAllaster * * * became the chief and headed and led a powerful clan that flourished from that time until the downfall of 'Prince Charles' in 1745."

The remoteness of the date given as that of the founding of the new clan would seem to imply absence of records. But coat armor came into use before the offshoot of the MacAllaster branch, and Burke is authority for the statement that a "Roll of Arms" made between the years 1240 and 1245 has come down to our times. Both clans claim the title "Lord of the Isles," and Burke in his General Armory, declaring that the name is "derived from Alexander, eldest son of Angus Mor of the Isles," gives for the shield of the head of that clan "charges" strikingly like those he also gives to the MacDonald "Ancient Lord of the Isles" and to six of a list of Armigers of that most ancient name, all of whose shields indicate a common ancestor, he gives the same motto, "Per mare per terras" (by sea and land), as he gives to the family of MacAllister.

Beginning with the earliest known ancestor of the Plainfield—Lebanon branch the record of some of his descendants follow.

Two genealogies, one published 1861, the other in 1901, enable the compiler to give the pedigree of Paul Reed.

William[1] Reed, sailed from London, England, in 1635: settled at Weymouth [Norfolk Co.], Mass.; married Avis Deacon, who came over the same year in the ship Alice of London. 9 children are of record, 4 sons; the 1st son, 3d child, was

William[2] Reed (William[1]), born Weymouth, Mass., Oct. 15, 1639; died ———, 1706; married ———, 1675, Esther, daughter of John and Mary (Cook) Thompson and granddaughter of Francis Cook of the Mayflower company, wife Esther also died in 1706. 9 children, 4 sons; the 2d son, 2d child, was

The family removed to Cummington before 1777. 10 children, 9 sons; the 6th son, 6th child, was

Paul[6] Reed (David,[5] Ebenezer,[4] William,[3 2 1]), born ———. Oct. 12, 1773; died [Jan. 3, 1854, Æ. 83 years, gravestone]; married Oct. 4, 1792, Mercy Noyes, who died [Nov. 22, 1853, Æ. 80 years, gravestone]; both buried East Plainfield [Sullivan Co.], N. H.

No children of Paul and Mercy (Noyes) Reed are listed in the genealogies which are authority for the foregoing compilation.

Arabel Rowell, wife of Fred Moulton, Dec. 22, 1835—July 15, 1903.

The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 24, page 378, and Vol. 25, pages 249, 267 and 268, is authority for the following. In Col. Moore's regiment most of his men were from New Hampshire. In the list of Capt. Edward Williams' company appears the name of Enoch Rowell. Capt. Williams was commissioned March 1, 1744. Of the total list, 208 men were from N. H., 50 from Mass. They "served in the memorable expedition against Louisburg in 1745." It is probable that the Enoch Rowell who died in 1840, was son of the colonial soldier.

Edwin Spaulding, born 1832—died Mar. 11, 1904.

The Spaulding Genealogy, published in 1897, shows that Betsey Ann and Edwin Spaulding were children of Amos Spaulding of the seventh generation from the English emigrant.

Edward[1] Spaulding was of Virginia about 1619; about 1634, he was with his family of Braintree [Norfolk Co.], Mass., where his wife Margaret died in 1640, his daughter Grace in 1641, and where his son Benjamin was born in 1643. The children of Margaret were John, Edward and Grace, those of wife Rachel (who was named in his will) were Benjamin, Joseph, Dinah and Andrew. His will was dated Feb. 13, 1666, at that date he was at Chelmsford [Middlesex Co.], Mass., and died there Apr. 5, 1670. 7 children of record, 5 sons; the 4th son, 5th child, was

Joseph[2] Spaulding (Edward[1]), born ———, Oct. 25, 1646; died Plainfield [Windham Co.], Conn., Apr. 3, 1740, Æ. 93 years; married Mary or Mercy, daughter of Thomas Jewell, who died Plainfield at the age of 75 years. The family removed to that Connecticut town not later, probably earlier, than 1714. 12 children, 5 sons; the 1st son, 2d child, was

Nathaniel[3] Spaulding (Joseph,[2] Edward[1]), born Chelmsford, Mass., Feb. 24, 1687. He went with or followed his father to Plainfield, Conn. His wife was Johannah ———. 10 children, 6 sons; the eldest child

Amos[4] Spaulding (Nathaniel,[3] Joseph,[2] Edward[1]), born Plainfield, Conn., Mar. 12, 1716; died Hampton [Windham Co.], Conn., Æ. 75 years; married Nov. 14, 1739, Hannah Cary, who died Feb. 5, 1791, Æ. 72 years. 8 children, 7 sons; the 2d son, 2d child, was

Amos[5] Spaulding (Amos,[4] Nathaniel,[3] Joseph,[2] Edward[1]), born ———, Conn., Jan. 25, 1744; died Grantham [Sullivan Co.], N. H., ———, 1830; married Abigail Herrick, who died Grantham, aged 77 years. "Mr. Spaulding moved from Connecticut to Plainfield, N. H., in 1778, and settled on the Connecticut river, near Pulsefer's ferry, thence moved to Grantham; the part where he lived has since been annexed to Plainfield." Children:

i. Daniel[6] b. ——— Mar. —, 1765; d. Cornish [Sullivan Co.], N. H.; married Hannah, daughter of his uncle James Spaulding, b. June 4, 1772; d. Cornish, N. H. Children [two or three died young]:

Elizabeth H., wife of Moses K. Stickney, died Apr. 4, 1834, age 24 years.

The Stickney Genealogy of this name states that the English emigrant to New England was William[1] Stickney, a son of William Stickney of Frampton, a parish in Lincolnshire, England ($3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of the ancient town of Boston), who was baptized in its church of St. Mary Dec. 30, 1558, and married June 16, 1585, Margaret Peirson. William Stickney, the junior of the name, was baptized in the parish church Sept. 6, 1592. He came to New England in 1637, landed at Boston, Mass., and with his wife Elizabeth was admitted to membership in the first church of that place Jan. 6, 1638, and in Nov. 1639 was dismissed to the church at Rowley [Essex Co.], Mass., where he died in Jan. 1665. His wife, born about 1608, was living in Sept. 1678. 10 children of record, 5 sons; the 3d son, 4th child, was

Lieut. John[2] Stickney (William[1]), born Rowley, Mass., Mar. 4, 1640; died there in 1709; married June 9, 1680, Hannah, daughter of the Capt. Samuel Brocklebank of Rowley who was killed in the fight with the Indians at Sudbury, Mass., Apr. 21, 1676. The compiler traced descendants of this name (sometimes spelled Brockelbank) into the state of New Hampshire. He has no doubt that the Brockelbanks born to that surname, who were buried in this cemetery, are direct descendants of Capt. Samuel and his wife Hannah Brocklebank who were married in Rowley, May 18, 1652, although he could not construct for them an unbroken line of descent. Lieut. John Stickney was also of King Philip's war in the action of Dec. 19, 1675, at the capture of the Narraganset fort, and in the fight in which his wife's father was killed. 7 children, 2 sons; the 1st son, 4th child, was

Samuel[3] Stickney (John,[2] William[1]), born Rowley, Mass., Mar. 26 (bapt. Mar. 30), 1690; died Rowley Nov. 3, 1760; married Nov. 15, 1715, Susannah Perley, who died July 12, 1773, aged 76. 10 children, 6 sons; the 4th son, 7th child, was

Daniel[4] Stickney (Samuel,[3] John,[2] William[1]), born Rowley, Mass., Apr. 5 (bapt. Apr. 12), 1730. He was of Newbury [Essex Co.], Mass., in 1755, Hopkinton [Merrimack Co.], N. H., in 1767, thence to Enfield [Grafton Co.], N. H., where he died. He married Newbury, Mass., Mar. 11, 1755, Sarah Gould, who died in Enfield Mar. 18, 1813, in her 77th year. A soldier of the Revolution. The compiler of the genealogy says "he was out with Washington in the Jerseys." Children:

In the summer of 1907 Mr. Allen F. Dustin of Hillsboro, N. H., spent part of a vacation revisiting scenes familiar to him for twenty years of his boyhood and young manhood. In his walks he sought to find a burial ground which he remembered was on one of the high hills eastward of the village of East Plainfield and distant about three miles by an air line from its cemetery. The little hamlet with which it was connected was located on the crest of the elevation known in its vicinity as Leavitt's Hill. Some of the larger atlases have its name marked on its site, in the town of Grantham, in Sullivan County. Even in the days of his boyhood families had begun to abandon the hill, but so great a change had taken place in his twenty years absence that it was with difficulty, and only after a long search, that he found the little cemetery and copied the inscriptions on its gravestones. The compiler is indebted to him for a duplicate of his manuscript. Obtaining such information as was available as to the best route to the crest of the hill, in August of 1909, with members of his family and relatives, he visited the place, and verified his work. The road over the hill extends some two or three miles from the Old Boston (now called the Croyden) turnpike to a highway nearly parallel to it, connecting Newport in Sullivan with Enfield in Grafton County. Its condition severely taxed the endurance of three horses and the skill of their driver as the mountain wagon in his charge lumbered over its uneven surface, obstructed with half-grown trees and bushes. Before railroads opened up the interior of New England the "pike" was the great thoroughfare from Boston to White River Junction, and thence across the Connecticut to Vermont. Where the hill road leaves this highway there stood for many years "the old brick tavern," which about twenty-five years ago was destroyed by fire. About a half-mile from this entrance there still lingers a solitary farm house, and a quarter of a mile from the Newport road the ruins of a house yet held an upright position, though deserted some fifteen years since, when the last resident of the hamlet on Leavitt's Hill removed to Newport, where he died in 1907 or '8.

Traditions have begun to attach to the site of the abandoned village. The compiler was informed by one gentleman that he had been told that "at one time there were forty children in its school, all Leavitts." More accurate, doubtless, was the information he received from an old resident of Plainfield, who wrote "there is an old cemetery in Grantham, near the northeasterly corner of the Corbin Park, very much neglected, one of the oldest in the town. I can remember when there were seventeen families and a school of forty pupils; now there is not a house on the road where those people lived." Near a spot on the level top of the hill, where cellar holes and a few decaying timbers gave proof that once several houses were clustered, the little cemetery was found. It has an area of from 2500 to 3000 square feet. Its stone markers indicated that it had been laid out in lots or sections. It is surrounded by a good stone wall about four feet high. Towards the house lots an entrance space had been left wide enough for the passage of a team. It was, however, blocked by a growth of young trees two or three inches in diameter. Within the enclosure were trees two to two and a half feet in circumference, three feet from the ground, and a tangle of young seedlings too numerous to count. Some of the graves evidently were still cared for, but the general aspect of the plot suggested but one thought—neglect. The inscriptions on its gravestones follow.

Jonathan Batchelder, died June 19, 1846, aged 89 years [stone slanting; half way down].

Sarah, wife of Jonathan Batchelder, died May 4, 1841, aged 80 years [stone lying on the ground].

Daniel Batchelder, died March 27, 1869, aged 77 years.

Julia B. his wife, died March 9, 1869, aged 73 years.

Mary N. daughter of D. and J. Batchelder and wife of George Davis, died Dec. 17, 1846, aged 22 years.

George Davis, died March 8, 1869, aged 55 years.

The genealogy of the name, published in 1898, gives as its earliest immigrant to New England the Rev. Stephen Bachiler, born 1561, died 1660, and states that, beginning with Nathaniel, his grandson, born in 1630, the surname of his descendants of the American branch has been written Batchelder.

Rev. Stephen[1] Bachiler, born England 1561, graduate of Oxford University 1581, settled as vicar of Wherwell, Co. Hampshire, in 1586. In 1605 he was "deprived of his benefice, presumably for Calvinistic opinions," and soon after settled in Newton Stay, the nearest hamlet east of Wherwell. There he bought and sold land from 1622 to 1631. He emigrated to New England in the ship William and Francis, landing at Boston June 5, 1632. He resided in Lynn [Essex Co.], Mass., and Hampton [Rockingham Co.], N. H., but returned to England, and lived at Hackney, now a part of London, where he died in 1660. His 2d son, 3d child, was

Nathaniel[2] Bachiler (Stephen[1]), born —— England; married Hester Mercer of Southampton [Co. Hampshire], England. [It appears by Vol. 45, page 53, of the N. E. H. and G. Register that a Jonathan Batchelder of Southampton, England, was a legatee by a will dated May 31, 1690.] The 3d son, 4th child, was

Nathaniel[3] Batchelder (Nathaniel,[2] Stephen[1]), born —— 1630; married Dec. 10, 1656, Deborah, daughter of John Smith of Martha's Vineyard; married 2d, Oct. 31, 1676, Mrs. Mary Wyman, widow of John, daughter of Rev. Thomas Wyman of Woburn [Middlesex Co.], Mass. The eldest son, 2d child, was

Samuel[4] Batchelder (Nathaniel,[3 2] Stephen[1]), born Hampton [Rockingham Co.], N. H., Jan. 10, 1681; married, probably Apr. 1, 1706, Elizabeth Davis of Newbury [Essex Co.], Mass. He was of Lieut. Sweet's company in the expedition of 1707 against Port Royal, and "as a scout" of Capt. Davis' company in 1712. Resided North Hampton. 12 children, 5 sons; the 1st son, 2d child, was

Henry[5] Batchelder (Samuel,[4] Nathaniel,[3 2] Stephen[1]), born Hampton, N. H., Oct. 30, 1709; married Sept. 27, 1733, Mary Marston (probably daughter of John), born Sept. 7, 1710. He resided some time on the old homestead, but removed to Northwood [Rockingham Co.], N. H., where he died. 6 children, 3 sons; the eldest child was

Davis[6] Batchelder (Henry,[5] Samuel,[4] Nathaniel,[3 2] Stephen[1]), baptized Hampton, N. H., Sept. 1, 1734; died Oct. 5, 1816; married Mary Taylor (daughter probably of John), born Apr. 15, 1737, died ——; married 2d, Ruth Palmer of North Hampton (daughter probably of William), baptized Oct. 20, 1734, died ——; married 3d, Mrs. Marston of North Hampton. A farmer, born Hampton, where he resided until 1770, when he located in Northwood, where he ever after resided. 10 children, 8 sons; the 2d son, 2d child, was Jonathan[7] Batchelder (Davis,[6] Henry,[5] Samuel,[4] Nathaniel,[3 2] Stephen[1]), born about 1757; died Grantham [Sullivan Co.], N. H., June 19, 1846; married Feb. 22, 1783, Sarah Clifford of Candia [Rockingham Co.], born about 1761; died Grantham, May 4, 1841, aged 80 years.

The genealogy has the following in relation to this Jonathan: "Jonathan[7] Batchelder (Davis,[6] Henry,[5] Samuel,[4] Nathaniel,[3 2] Stephen[1]), born near Deerfield [Rockingham Co.], N. H. [Deerfield is the adjoining town to Northwood]; married in Deerfield Feb. 22, 1783, Sarah Clifford, both of Candia [a town adjoining Deerfield], N. H. She died North Grantham, N. H. He was in the Revolutionary war for eight years, was at Bunker Hill, Lexington and other battles. He drew a pension of $96 a year. He died 1846, residence North Grantham, N. H." Both by the gravestone and pension record, it is evident that of his father's 10 children, Henry, born June 5, 1755, was older, and Simon, born Mar. 5, 1758, was younger, than their brother Jonathan. The battle of Lexington was fought by men from the immediate vicinity of Concord and the other towns in Middlesex County in Mass., between Lexington and Charlestown Neck, which is within a mile of Boston. There was no time for men from a distance to get upon the ground before the battle was over. There were troops from New Hampshire at Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775, and as a drummer boy it is possible that Jonathan Batchelder was among them; but it is not probable that as a drummer he began his service at eight years of age. The pension list of 1820 shows him enrolled in N. H. for service as a private in a Mass. regiment; by that of 1830 he is of Grafton Co., N. H., and his rank is given as a drummer in the "Mass. Continental line;" the list of 1840 has this record: "State of New Hamp. Sullivan Co., town of Grantham, Jonathan Batchelder, 83."

The Batchelder genealogy mentions but one child of Jonathan and Sarah (Clifford) Batchelder, Benjamin,[8] born Apr. 24, 1786; died Feb. 27, 1857. Residence Grantham, N. H., and Fairlee, Vt.; married Jan. 11, 1815, Mehitable Cilley, born Jun1 3, 1793; died Bradford, Vt., Oct. 5, 1860.

Daniel Batchelder, born about 1792, died Grantham, N. H., Mar. 27, 1869, aged 77 years (gravestone). He was doubtless also of the eighth generation and a son of Jonathan and Sarah (Clifford) Batchelder; but the compiler has no other knowledge of his family than that his wife Julia B.

was born about 1796 and died in Grantham, Mar. 9, 1869, aged 73 years (gravestone), and also that a daughter Mary N. was born about 1824, who died in Grantham, Dec. 17, 1846, aged 22 years (gravestone), the wife of George Davis, born about 1814, and died in Grantham, Mar. 8, 1869, aged 55 years (gravestone).

John Leavitt, died Oct. 30, 1854, aged 84 years.

The compiler has been unable to determine the parentage of John Leavitt, whose ownership and occupancy, doubtless, gave his surname to the hill where he lived and died. There is ample evidence that the families of Batchelder and Leavitt were related and to indicate a probable line of Leavitt ancestry.

The progenitors of Jonathan Batchelder, the revolutionary pensioner of Grantham, were of Hampton, Rockingham Co., N. H., for six generations from the time before 1640, when the Rev. Stephen Bachiler settled there, till 1770, when Jonathan's father removed to Northwood, in the same county, some thirty miles distant from the spot where the name was first established in New England. It appears by Dow's history of Hampton that the emigrant Thomas[1] Leavitt was of Exeter, N. H., in 1639, but had removed to Hampton as early as 1644, where he died Nov. 28, 1696, aged "above 80," that his son

Aretus[2] Leavitt, born about 1646, married, Aug. 1, 1717, Ruth Sleeper, and died Jan. 14, 1739. They had not less than seven children. Their 2d son, 4th child, was

James[3] Leavitt, born about 1683; married Feb. 20, 1717, Ann Brackett, and 2d, Hannah ———. 5 children of record; his only son, 3d child, was

James[4] Leavitt, born Jan. 12, 1722; died July 29, 1761; married Dec. 4, 1751, Sarah, daughter of Shubael Sanborn. His youngest child of record was

James[5] Leavitt, born June 22, 1760; married May 31, 1781, Betsey, or Betty, daughter of Nathaniel Batchelder. They had 14 children, 2 sons; the eldest child was Sarah[6] Leavitt, born June 7, 1782; died, as recorded in town records, Nov. 12, 1835, but by Dow's record, Sept. 11, 1833, married Samuel Batchelder, born Hampton Oct. 15, 1780, died June 12, 1857.

The Betsey, or Betty, who married James[5] Leavitt was of the Hampton Batchelders, and the Samuel Batchelder who married Sarah[6] Leavitt was cousin to Jonathan Batchelder, who died on Leavitt's Hill in Grantham, N. H., June 19, 1846, the son of Jonathan's uncle, Samuel[6] Batchelder. The gravestones of the two wives of John Leavitt (who was born about 1770) show that Susan B. was born about 1778, and Rachel B. about 1781. The initial B. in connection with both names, at a time when "middle names" were very uncommon, would seem to indicate that they were sisters, born to the name of Batchelder, and Benjamin's birth in 1786, and that of his brother Daniel in 1792 (gravestone), suggests the probability that at least four of the children of Jonathan (born about 1757) and Sarah (Clifford) Batchelder came with, or followed, their parents to Leavitt's Hill in Grantham.

Without the aid of a genealogy of the name, the inscriptions on the gravestones and information gained from a grandson of John and Susan B. Leavitt enables the compiler to make such a first sketch genealogical statement as follows:
